LAWRENCE LEACH OF SALEM, MASS.,

and

SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS

By F. Phelps Leach of East Highgate, Vt.

For thirty-five years I have devoted much of my leisure time in an endeavor to trace out the descendants of Lawrence Leach, and the increasing interest in American genealogy has induced me to publish my work. In a letter that I received from the State Librarian of a middle west state I find the following paragraph:

"The middle west is just awakening to the fact that there is such a thing as ancestry, and is beginning to take an interest in genealogy. For twenty years we have been accumulating such material as our very limited means permit and we have a fair working library of good books."

Another State Librarian writes: "The Nebraska and Midwest Genealogical Society has recently been organized, and there is considerable interest shown for genealogical research."

A Southern State Librarian writes: "Books of this type are especially welcome as there is so much interest in genealogies and we are called on to do much research work along these lines."

Volume I contains the first five generations, (and their children) of the descendants of Lawrence Leach, and I published it to enable his descendants in the various states to trace their line for publication in volume two. I have aimed to avoid all privacies and personalities which might be indelicate in relation to family circles. Every family has two lives, its public and its private one. The one becomes fairly the property of the public, in virtue of its having been connected with events in which every one has a share of interest; but the other belongs exclusively to itself, and its intimate friends, and the public have no more right to discuss or pry into its details than they have into those of any private individual. I have aimed at but two results—fullness and accuracy, but it is hardly to be expected that errors have been wholly avoided; and it is hoped that they are but few, and that they do not impair the usefullness of the work.

Due acknowledgment has been made, it is believed, of all sources which have been relied upon for information. For the rest, the author desires once for all to express his thanks to all who have kindly aided him by their suggestions and records, which have helped to compile the work.

My greatest source of information has been the Library of The New England Historical and Genealogical Society. As a Life Member of that Society I have had the use of their grand old Library, at 9 Ashburton Place, Boston, Mass.

147. Capt. Daniel[6] Leach (Paul,[5] Paul,[4] Robert,[3] Robert,[2] Lawrence[1]), of Manchester, Mass., baptized there 9 Jan. 1763; lost at sea, off Cape Ann, 26 Mar 1817. His estate was settled, and administration granted to William Tuck, 20 May, 1817. He married 22 Apr. 1783, Eunice, daughter of George Norton, of Manchester; born there 16 Dec. 1766; died 27 Jan. 1860; admitted to the church at Manchester, 30 Sept. 1810. Her estate settled and administration granted to her son Daniel Leach, "1st Tuesday, Feb., 1866."

He began a nautical life some time before reaching his majority, and soon rose to the dignity of a shipmaster. "It is related of Capt. Daniel, who was at one time mate under Capt. Tuck: "Their vessel was captured, and a prize crew placed on board to take her to Halifax. While on her way they put into a small harbor on the Nova Scotia coast. Capt. Tuck was a fine conversationalist and of most excellent address, and he so ingratiated himself into the good graces of the prize captain, that he was invited to accompany that officer to visit some of his British friends on shore.

"During their absence, Leach, who was on deck, was watching the doings of the prize crew, who were all in the rigging, making some repairs and shaking out the sails, that they might dry. In this, Leach thought he saw his opportunity, and with him to see was to act. Some of the prisoners were on deck, and soon comprehended the plan. Leach loitered towards the arms-chest, and seizing an axe, burst the cover open; and this being the signal agreed upon, the Americans were quickly armed, and the crew in the rigging were at their mercy. Leach and his former crew were in charge, and the English crew were his prisoners."

"After a pleasant visit on shore, the prize captain and his polite friend were rowed alongside. Leach received them courteously, and surprised the English captain by ordering him below as his prisoner, and Captain Tuck was informed that the ship was his again, and his old crew were awaiting his orders. Under his directions the vessel was taken safely to Boston."

There was some choice wood on board that had been taken from prizes captured, (previous to this) and Capt. Leach had his furniture made from some of it when he was married, and some of the furniture is still in existence in Manchester-by-the-sea.

He married 19 Mar. 1801, Mary Ryder, born at Dunberton, N. H., 21 Mar. 1778; died 4 June, 1850, at Goffstown; daughter of Ebenezer and Abigail. Rev. Mr. Cochran says: "I have heard old people speak of her as 'blessed woman' ". "A facetious remark of some of his townspeople was that: 'his father was a Driver, and the son was a Ryder.' " He joined the Congregational church, 24

Aug. 1825, and was chosen Deacon 30 Oct. 1828; he continued in that office until death. Rev. Mr. Cochran says of him: "I have heard old people speak of him as 'one of the best men that ever lived.' "

150. John[6] Leach (Capt. Joseph,[5] Paul,[4] Robert,[3] Robert,[2] Lawrence[1]), of Rockingham, Vt.; born at Manchester, Mass., 14 Aug. 1772; died 13 Oct. 1829, in Rockingham, leaving an estate valued at $30,000.

He married first in Rockingham, in Jan. 1796, Susanna Wiley, born 1770; died in Rockingham, 24 Aug. 1803. (Gravestone). She was a sister of Mary, wife of No. 148 Joseph Leach. He married secondly, 25 Mar. 1804, Hannah Perry of Rockingham.

Mr. Leach went to Rockingham previous to 1797 and settled on "Leach Hill," two miles north of Saxtons River on a road running between Saxtons River and Rockingham, now unused except from Saxtons River to the Leach farm. This farm has since 1797 been in the Leach family and is now occupied by Alfred B. Leach.

The names of John Leach and his descendants appear frequently on the town records as dealing quite largely in real estate. April 16, 1807 he entered this certificate in volume 4, page 101 of the town records: "I, the subscriber, do not agree in religious opinion with the majority of inhabitants of said town of Rockingham. John Leach." This was in accordance with the state law whereby if said certificate was entered on the records of the town the subscriber was relieved from paying his portion of the taxation for support of the town minister. He was a member of the Masonic fraternity and upon the organization of the first lodge in that town February 16, 1817, he was one of the seven Masons who brought their demits from other lodges and at that time joined the local organization. The records of the first church in Rockingham show that on May 14, 1797, "Mr. Leach and wife made profession of Christian Faith owned the Covenant and their child was baptized by the name of John." Mr. Leach's father was a sea captain in the India trade. The captain had five brothers who were all sea captains, four of them privateersmen. Numerous descendants of this old family of Leach are now scattered throughout Rockingham and neighboring towns, in which they have entered in an important way into the local history of the different neighborhoods.

173. Timothy[6] Leach (Maj. John,[5] Samuel,[4] John,[3] Richard,[2] Lawrence[1]), of Salem, N. H., born at Rial-side Beverly, Mass., 6 Dec. 1737. He married first, 5 Dec. 1775, Mary, born 1741; died 1791; daughter of Rev. John Chipman. He married secondly 17 Dec. 1791, Lydia Gott. Timothy Leach, Beverly, Private, Capt. Larkin Thorndile's (1st) Beverly Co., which marched on the alarm of 19 Apr. 1775, to Concord, appears in the war record.

Rev. Mr. Chipman, was a native of Barnstable, Mass., and graduated at Harvard College in 1711; for more than 59 years the faithful pastor of the 2nd parish in Beverly; a man eminent for solid powers of mind and useful learning. He was twice married, first to Rebeckah sister of Col. Robert Hale, and secondly to Hannah Warren, who died without issue 24 June, 1769. By his first wife he had 15 Children: 1. Elizabeth; 2. Sarah (died in infancy); 3. John; 4. Sarah m. John Leach No. 168; 5. Samuel; 6. Rebeckah; 7. Robert (died young); 8. Henry;

He married first at Bridgewater, Chloe Attwood, born there May 1772; died at Kirby, 18 Mar. 1811; daughter of Francis and Elizabeth (Lucas); secondly Anna Babbitt, born May 1772, died 21 Dec. 1865.

Mr. Leach came to Kirby, Vt., in 1798, bought a lot of land near the center of that part of the town which was then called Burke Tongue, and cut his first tree. He was the first settler in that town and was soon joined by Josiah Joslin, Jude White, Jonathan Lewis, Ebenezer Damen, Ashel Burt, Antipus Harrington, and others, most of them from Mass., and N. H.

While absent, engaged in removing his family from Mass., to their new home, the proprietors obtained a new draught of the town, bringing his number some five miles to the southward of the spot where he began clearing, in an unbroken wilderness. Procuring on his return the assistance of a neighbor, as a guide, he started out in quest of his number, which after some difficulty, he succeeded in finding. In this new location he began his labors in the month of April, 1800. He erected at once, a log house, though, as the reader may well imagine, "under difficulties" in-as-much as he was destitute of shingles and boards not to mention numerous other articles indispensible for convenient and successful house building.

Into this rude structure, while the gable ends were still open, he moved his family consisting of a wife and two small children. Addressing himself now, to clearing away the forest about him, and preparing the soil for cultivation he succeeded, the first year in raising sufficient grain to meet the wants of his family. By the third year he had erected the first frame barn in the town, in which building was taught the first school and held the first religious meeting (1804). It was still in good condition in 1880. He also built the first saw mill in Kirby. He held nearly all the public offices of his town.

Mr. Leach was a man of remarkable ability; had a large estate left him by his father; carried on mercantile business many years under the firm name Leach & Warner. His son Rev. Joseph Allen Leach says of him: "He was a born aristocrat in a good sense. I remember Judge Kellog of the Supreme Court once came to plead with father to accept the Republican nomination for Congress for the Southern district of Vermont. Father scorned office, and as a child I remember my surprise at his impatience with the Judge, who said, 'hardly a Democrat will go against you.' He seemed to me so ungrateful to the Judge, his most intimate friend, who urged in vain the interests of the old Whig party. He gave the best educational advantages to all his children. Like his father he never contracted any debts; his bills were always paid in advance, especially the last few years preceding his death and I wonder he did not pay his funeral expenses."

293. Ruth[7] Leach (Capt. Benjamin,[6] Capt. Benjamin,[5] Richard,[4] Samuel,[3] Robert,[2] Lawrence[1]), born at Manchester, Mass., 17 Apr. 1778; died 13 Oct. 1843. She married 26 Dec. 1797, Capt. John Allen, son of No. 139, born 1 Jan. 1776, died 27 Aug. 1834. "He was known as "Bos'n Allen," one of the old time Yankee Vikings, and built the brick house now owned and occupied by his grandson, Capt. John Allen, a lordly house in its time. He was son of Azariah[5] and No. 139 Sarah[6] (Leach), and a descendant of William[1] Allan, ancestor of most of the Allens in Manchester and vicinity, who came over to Cape Ann, in 1624, and settled in Manchester, "about 1640"; one of the first selectmen, a carpenter, who built the first frame house in town, and "an influential and enterprising citizen." Among his descendants are: Benjamin Allen, one of the first Deacons, serving from 1716, until his death in 1747; Samuel Allen, father of thirteen children; Town Clerk, Selectman, and merchant, born in 1701; Capt. "Ben." Allen, and three brothers John, James, and Samuel, all "noted shipmasters", Malachi[5] a gentleman of the old school, who is described by Charles H. Allen, of Salem, Mass., who worked for him, when a boy, at the "Cove", eighty-one years ago, as "a man of much dignity of character, of an inquiring mind and much interested in hearing about foreign countries; always asked a blessing at meals; he was a good man; was about five feet ten inches in height, wore short clothes, had a que, and silver buckles on his shoes." He was able to work about his farm when over eighty years of age, and when eighty-nine "could cut up a cod-fish like a young man."

Children born in Manchester (surname Allen):

i. Ruth,[8] b. 4 Sept. 1798; d. 13 Jan. 1875; m. 28 Nov. 1816, John Perry Allen, born 1796; "was chosen to the Mass. Senate and was Presidential Elector; was at one time one of the largest manufacturers of furniture in the United States, of which occupation he might have said "all of which I saw and a great part of which I was." Mr. Allen was a man of great force of character and executive ability, and had great influence in town affairs. While not a man of liberal education he was a forceful speaker and his impressive bearing added power to his speech. Few men have done more for business interests of Manchester, or manifested a more marked ingenuity or a more indomitable pluck in overcoming adverse circumstances. His name is a name to conjure with to the present day. In the fire which occurred 27 Aug. 1836, Mr. Allan's losses were estimated as over $60,000. He was insured for only about $9,000. With indomitable energy he resumed business with a new mill and shop. He died in 1875.

ii. John, b. 23 May, 1801; drowned there 6 June, 1814.

iii. Benjamin Leach, b. 7 May, 1803; d. 24 Sept. 1865; m. 26 Oct. 1824, Hannah Lee Foster, b. 17 Jan. 1805; daughter of Maj. Israel Foster. He went to sea with his father in early life rose to the command of a vessel; subsequently engaged in mercantile business in New Orleans; removed to Boston, where he continued in the mercantile business; was chosen an Alderman of Boston, and by virtue of his office became Mayor of that city on the death of Mayor Seavor.

iv. Isaac, b. 11 Nov. 1805; d. 27 Apr. 1879; m. 28 July, 1836, Harriet Osborne, b. 22 Feb. 1800; d. 4 Aug. 1886; dau. of Henry and Mary (Ward), of Salem. Children: 1. Hannah Lee Allen, b. 1. May, 1837; 2. Harriet Eliza Allen, b. 1. Sept. 1838, m. Hewey Sheppard Johnson, of Nahant, Mass.; 3. John Allen, b. 12 Oct. 1840, m. 21 Sept. 1871, Eveline Hooper, daughter of William and Sally (Colby), and granddaughter of Col. David Colby of Manchester, Mass.

294. Benjamin[7] Leach (Capt. Benjamin,[6] Capt. Benjamin,[5] Richard,[4] Samuel,[3] Robert,[2] Lawrence[1]), of Manchester, Mass., born there 11 Dec. 1785; died there 10 Oct. 1859. He married first, 21 Feb. 1811, Susan Cheever, born 14 Feb. 1785, died 7 June, 1829; secondly, 7 Jan. 1830, Lucy Story Allen, born 1 Jan. 1797, died 26 March, 1889, widow of Nathan Allen; daughter of Aaron[6] and Sarah (Crafts) Allan; Malachi[5] and Ruth (Edwards), Malachi[4] and Pricilla (Hooper), Jonathan[3] and Mary (Price), Samuel[2] and Sarah (Tuck), William[1] and Elizabeth (Bradley) Allen.

Susan Cheever was daughter of Ezekiel[5] and Susan (Butler). Ezekiel Cheever was born 1741; he was noted for his integrity strong religious convictions phenomenal memory and extreme gentleness. He was wont to restore to their native element any fish that were caught on the hook, otherwise than by the mouth, addressing them in this fashion, "You are the victim of an accident, I cannot claim you; go in Peace." This gentle disciple of Isaac Walton never diviated from a fixed price; an advance in the market made no difference with him. One day as he was returning from fishing, while crossing Smith's point, a dangerous bull charged upon him "with mighty bellowing," whereat Mr. Cheever calmly sat down on his barrow and addressed the angry bovine with such an impressive array of Scripture texts, that after pawing the earth awhile, and sniffing at the barrow, the infuriated but perplexed beast withdrew with a crestfallen air. Ezekial[5] was son of Rev. Amos[4] Cheever; Rev. Amos[3] (a graduate of Harvard, 1707) and Ann (Genish); Rev. Samuel[2] (a graduate of Harvard 1659, and was the first setled minister of Marblehead) and Ruth (Anger), Rev. Ezekiel[1] Cheever the distinguished Latin teacher.

Capt. Benjamin[7] Leach, followed the sea from the age of 14 to 45, beginning as a sailor; was 1st Mate of a ship, under the command of Capt. Thomas Leach and finally rose to the command of a vessel. He visited all quarters of the globe; at the time Lord Nelson bombarded Copenhagen he was in that port; was at St. Petersburg soon after the murder of Czar Paul, and was shown the room where he died. He devoted the last 30 years of his life to farming; represented Manchester in the Legislature in 1834 and 5; was Justice of the Peace from 1834 until his death; was one of the Selectmen, Assessor, and Overseers of Poor from 1836 to 1849; Town Clerk and Collector for several years. He had a large general information and a tenacious memory; few men not actually connected with political life understood political history better, and were more thoroughly informed of its general movements. He was a useful and respected citizen, and died deeply lamented by all who knew him. At the time of his death, he owned and lived on the homestead of his ancestors.

21 Oct. 1836, widow of George Norton, and daughter of Capt. Amos and Apphia (Brown) Hilton, of Manchester. Capt. Hilton was in Capt. Fuller's Co., Col. Bailey's Regt., in the Expedition to Lake George, 1758, and at Louisburg in Capt. Andrew Giddin's Co., of Provincial troops. He was a descendant of William Hilton a London merchant who came to Plymouth on the "Fortune" 1621, a brother of Gov. Edward Hilton. Her son, Dr. Ezekiel W. Leach, administered on her estate 29 Nov. 1836.

Capt. Leach was honored with many town offices; held the office of Selectman for several years previous to his death. He was a shipmaster of high standing 22 years, and sailed in the employ of William Gray, an eminent merchant of Salem, who had, at one time, over sixty sails of square rigged vessels on the ocean. Capt. Thomas owned the brig "Jones" of Boston, and the brig "Statesman", on which he died while on passage from Havanna to Hamburg. His widow was named executrix of his will which was proved 1 Aug. 1828.

347. John[7] Leach (Samuel,[6] Samuel,[5] Samuel,[4] Samuel,[3] Giles,[2] Lawrence[1]), was born in Wheelock, Caledonia Co., Vt., 11 Aug. 1792, died at Hazelton, Tuscola Co., Mich., 8 Feb. 1878. He married 14 Oct. 1820, at Centerville, Allegany Co., N. Y., Hannah Gilman, who died there 15 June, 1874.

Each one of his six American Ancestors faced the shot and shell in America's service. His grandfather died while in service, in 1760, and left three sons who served in the Revolutionary War. The youngest, Jeshurun,[6] died while in service, but Samuel served through the entire war, and also served in the war of 1812-14. This son John and his brother Jeshurun served in the latter war. Jeshurun,[7] the younger being in service during the last two months of the war, and in 1870 his widow was awarded a military county land warrant for his service. Both John and his father were pensioner's of the United States Government.

348. Jeshurun[7] Leach (Samuel,[6] Samuel,[5] Samuel,[4] Samuel,[3] Giles,[2] Lawrence[1]), was born in Wheelock, Caledonia Co., Vt., 29 Aug. 1796, died at Margaretta, Erie Co., Ohio, 27 Sept. 1841. He married 2 Sept. 1817, Theoda Huntington, born at Chelsea, Orange Co., Vt., 27 Nov. 1799, died at Traverse City, Mich., 27 Aug. 1872., daughter of Theophilus and Phoebe (Hall). Mr. Huntington was for several years a member of the General Assembly of Vermont, and received one dollar per day for his services. He held other public positions and was universally esteemed by those who knew him. During the war of 1812-14, he resided a few miles east of Buffalo, and the sound of the British, as well as of American guns was frequently heard. When Buffalo was burned by the British throngs of fleeing citizens passed Mr. Huntington's residence. In the temporary absence of their father, Theoda and her sister Lois, joined the flying crowd but were soon met and brought back by the more discreet parent, to await developments. The British made no attempts to penetrate the rural districts, and the frightened fugitives soon returned. Mr. Leach was in service in the war of 1812-14, and in 1870 his widow was awarded a military county land warrant for his services. About 1825, he removed with his family to the then wild territory of Michigan, on the steamer, which was the second to navigate the waters of Lake Erie. Gov. De Witt Clinton of New York, was a passenger, bound for Cleveland, to break ground for the Ohio canal. After a two years residence in Michigan, the family returned to the old home near Buffalo, N. Y. A few years later another removal to Ohio, took place, and so the family continued to vibrate, as it were, between Ohio and Michigan, until his death at Margaretta, Erie Co., Ohio.
